

ABSTRACT

RELATED APPLICATION METHOD STORYTELLING WITH ABILITY TO RAISE LANGUAGE EARLY CHILDHOOD

By DWI MARLIAWITA

Problems in this study are not yet developed the ability to express language in early childhood. This study aims to determine the relationship between the application of the method to tell by the ability to express language in early childhood. This research is a quantitative correlation method. The subjects of this study were students kindergarten Mutiara Bangsaku A group of Bandar Lampung 2014-2015 school year. Primary data collection using the method of observation and secondary data collection methods of documentation. Results were analyzed with Spearman Rank Correlation. The results showed that there was a positive relationship between the application of the method to tell by the ability to express language in early childhood. Therefore, should the use of storytelling can be used as an alternative to learning in early childhood education, especially in developing the ability to express language.

Keywords: Storytelling Method, Ability Reveal Language, Early Childhood