

ABSTRACT

RUSSIAN INTERVENTION TO CRIMEA (UKRAINE)

By:

Francisca Paramitha Sekar Enderwati

Intervention is an act of a state intervened against another country's domestic affairs. Intervention in international law is basically not allowed, but because of certain reasons possible interventions. One example of intervention that Russian intervention to Crimea (Ukraine). Background Russia intervened into the territory of Ukraine that is at the request of the President of Ukraine, Viktor Yanukovich with the intention to helping resolve internal conflicts in Ukraine, particularly in the region of Crimea. The problems discussed in this research is how intervention in International Law and how the Russian intervention measures to the territory of Crimea (Ukraine).

This research was a normative law through data collection procedures derived from primary legal materials. Data obtained then processed were secondary data from literature studies. Literature study conducted by studying the literature, articles, and other reading materials is done through literature searches to the library of the University of Lampung, Lampung Regional Library and Internet sites related to this research.

This study resulted in the conclusion that the intervention is an act whereby a State or an international organization to interfere in the internal affairs of another State or problems. Interventions actually banned in international law, as stated in the UN General Assembly Resolution 2625 (XXV) of the Principles of Friendly Relations and Cooperation between Nations and UN General Assembly Resolution 2131 (XX) on the inadmissibility of intervention in the State Affairs And Protection of Independence and Sovereignty. But intervention is allowed on condition that the following provisions in Chapter VII (Articles 39-51) of the UN Charter. Interventions allowed in the form of humanitarian intervention, self-defense and collective action on the UN Security Council's mandate. Russia's intervention conducted with sending a Russian military forces that aim to help stop the internal conflict in Ukraine, but this action is branch out and running is not fit for purpose. This intervention in the form of occupation by Russian military forces, procurement referendum in the Crimea, as well as providing support and military aid to the rebels who threaten the sovereignty, security and territorial integrity of Ukraine, especially in Crimea.

Keywords: Intervention, State Sovereignty, UN