

ABSTRACT

INCOME ANALYSIS AND HOUSEHOLD INCOME DISTRIBUTION OF COCOA FARMER IN PESAWARAN INDAH VILLAGE ON PADANG CERMIN DISTRICT AT PESAWARAN REGENCY

By

Afriyanti Roswita¹, Dwi Haryono², and Hurip Santoso²

The aimed of this research was to: (1) analyze household income and contribution of farming cocoa towards Farmer's household income, and (2) analyze distribution of household income.

Research was done in Pesawaran Indah village on Padang Cermin district at Pesawaran regency. This location is chosen purposively and sample taken by simple random sampling. Respondent in this research are 46 people. Research method that used was survey method.

Result got from this research was farmer household income of cocoa in Pesawaran Indah village came from various business activities, which were farming cocoa, farming outside cocoa, and non-farming activity. Household income of cocoa farmer was Rp. 20,944,667.36/year. Where amount of Rp. 11,127,201.99 or as big as 53.12 income percents came from farming cocoa, amount of Rp. 5,838,371.17 or as big as 27.88 percents comes from activity farming besides cocoa and amount of Rp. 3,979,094.20 or as big as 19.00 percents came from non-farming activity. Household income's distribution of farmer was not distributed evenly with number of gini ratio as big as 0.41, it showed that farmer household income distribution was in medium discrepancies.

Keyword: income, distribution, cocoa farming

1. Student of Social Economy Agricultural of Agriculture Faculty at Lampung University
2. Lecturers of Social Economy Agricultural of Agriculture Faculty at Lampung University