

ABSTRACT

EVALUATION OF HOPE FAMILY PROGRAM IN HEALTH SECTOR (Study On Way Kandis Village, Tanjung Senang District)

By

RIA ERIDANITA YASA

Hope Family Program (PKH) is a conditional aid from Indonesian Social Ministry in health and education sector. In health sector, PKH goals is to improving the health of mothers and infants to medical check up through incentives preventive health services (prevention and ain't treatment). PKH implementation in health sector at Way Kandis Village has a trouble, such there just only 74 person who can get this aid. This is not comparable with total very poor domestic in this village.

This research purpose is to give a description which success or unsuccessful this program in health sector at Way Kandis Village with a research focus is targeting accuracy , precision of execution and result accuracy. This type of research is descriptive research with qualitative approach and then data collection techniques done with an interview , documentation and observation

Results of this research, implementation Hope Family Program (PKH) in health sector at Way Kandis Village, district of Tanjung Senang is unsuccessful. It occurs because there still a trouble about fund that is not on time, there still some person who didn't do medical checkup in every single month and there's a lack of coordination between PKH implementer in Way Kandis.

Keywords: Evaluation, Accuracy