ABSTRACT

ANALYSIS OF INCOME AND WELFARE IN AGROFORESTRY FARMERS AT THE SUMBER AGUNG VILLAGE OF KEMILING SUBDISTRICT BANDAR LAMPUNG CITY

By

Randy Rizki Syofiandi

Forestry development always pay attention and aims to realize sustainable forest management (SFM) because it’s function is very important in supporting life and social welfare. This study aims to (1) identify the structure of agroforestry farmers' household income (2) to analyze the distribution of the income of farmers agroforestry (3) to analyze the level of poverty of farmers agroforestry. The samples in this study using simple random sampling method as much as 41 respondents. The results obtained from this study are: (1) The structure of the income of farmers at the village Sumber Agung agroforestry comes from agroforestry farming income of Rp 11,675,317.07 (68.67%), and the effort is not agroforestry Rp 5,327,804.88 (31.33%). (2) The distribution of the income of farmers at the Sumber Agung village agroforestry tend not evenly among farmers, with a gini ratio value of 0.4. (3) The poverty rate agroforestry farming family at the Sumber Agung village average are in the category of near poor and poor, amounting to 60.97%.

Keywords: income, income distribution, level of poverty