

MOTTO

The scientist only imposes two things, namely truth and sincerity, imposes them upon himself and upon other scientists (Erwin Schrödinger)