Good University Governance derived from more general concept of Good Governance. In Good University Governance, this concept emphasizes on the synergy in managing university with the students and society. For that reason, Good University Governance is also applied in Government University of Lampung (UNILA) because it is in line with The Vision of UNILA, that is "In the year 2025 UNILA will become 10 best universities in Indonesia". One of UNILA Mission in RPJP 2005-2025 is that "To bring into reality UNILA (Good University Governance)". The formulation of problem in this research is that how to apply Good University Governance covering the principle of transparency, accountability, and responsiveness. Then, whatever the obstacles in applying the principle of Good University Governance in UNILA.

The method used in this research is qualitative approach. Data collecting technique is done through observation, interview, and documentation. The result of research shows that the application of transparency principle has been done by the existence of information centre, but it can not fully give the information, especially, financial information to public. UNILA has also applied the principle of accountability by having the report of government institution performance of accountability (LAKIP), but it has not covered in the report of financial responsibility to the society yet. Meanwhile, UNILA has applied the principle of responsiveness well. It can be seen from the sensitiveness of UNILA in accommodating and fulfilling the society need from any phenomena. while, the obstacle in applying Good University Governance is that the human resources and financial obstacle.
