

ABSTRACT

The Influence of Interpersonal Communication Between Mother and Teenage Girls To The Knowledge of Free Sex Dangers (Study on The Eighth Class Female Students at SMP Negeri 1 Bandar Lampung)

By

Ramanda Putra

Sexual behavior in adolescents can lead to serious problems if the behavior is expressed inappropriately and not in accordance with the norms in force. Therefore it takes the role of parents, especially mothers to provide an understanding of the dangers of free sex. The objectives of this research are to know how knowledgeable the dangers of free sex as a result of interpersonal communication that do mothers with teenage girl and to determine the ideal form of communication used in interpersonal communication mother at providing knowledge of the dangers of free sex to teenage girls. SOR Theory used as the analysis theory for this research. This research uses the quantitative descriptive methods. The results of this study show percentage influence interpersonal communication between mother and teenage daughter to the knowledge of the dangers of promiscuity among girls at 57,3% and the most ideal form of communication used in the process of interpersonal communication moms with teenage girls to the knowledge of the Impact of free sex is a form of conversation.

Keywords : Interpersonal Communication, Free Sex Danger, SOR Theory.