

ABSTRACT

THE PLANTATION SECTOR REVENUE CONTRIBUTION TO LOCAL REVENUE (PAD) IN DISTRICT LAMPUNG UTARA (PERIOD 2004-2008)

By

Ryan Thama

The effort to increase economic growth and improving living standards can be done in various ways, including through efforts to develop plantation resources optimally. Business plantation sector plays a strategic role in state and local economy through the export of primary plantation activities that contribute to state and local governments in the form of tax revenues and dividends, and income in the form of levies into the Local Revenue (PAD). Therefore, good management of the plantation sector which can be used as one of the supporters of local revenue.

Problems which is lifted in this research is: "How much do the plantation sector contribution to the acceptance of district Lampung Utara local revenue (PAD)?" The target which to be reached is:

1. Knowing the contribution of the plantation sector contribution to the acceptance local revenue in district Lampung Utara.
2. Calculating the amount of projected revenue plantation sector which can be donated to the local revenue of District Lampung Utara.

The analytical tool used is descriptive quantitative and the data used are secondary data (period 2004 - 2008), and to know the amount of projected revenue to be obtained is calculated using the formula of linear trend.

The result of this research can be concluded are:

1. Contribution retribution plantation sector to local revenue (PAD) in District Lampung Utara has increased during 2004 to 2008 with an average of 0.098% revenue percentage of total revenue realization.
2. The average percentage achievement level of retribution revenue realization of plantation sector over the past five years were 107.9%.

Based on the calculation PAD revenue projections derived from the plantation sector will increase by Rp. 21,436,229.8 every year