The research was conducted using a descriptive qualitative research type. the focus of this research should pay attention to linkages with the formulation of the problem because both interconnected i.e. opinions and actions in addressing Student Association. The selected location is SMA negeri 10 Bandar Lampung. The technique of determination of the Informant used in this study using Snowball Sampling in which the informant early in this study is the student who is Chairman of the OSIS SMA Negeri 10 Bandar Lampung would later found the informant-the next informant in accordance with predetermined criteria. The type of the source data in this study was obtained from primary data obtained directly the source of information (the informant) and from the notes in the field. secondary data used to support and rechecking pre-existing data sourced from Libraries and documentation. In the data collection carried out Observation and then deep interview against informants and the collection of the documentation as a support.

The research results described by association can be divided into two guidelines that a positive and a negative association, or free association. A positive association can contribute well to the youth and the community. While the Association is the Association that can harm themselves and their surroundings. Free association is the Association which has no limit, so that teenagers who engage in free association will take action that is outside the bounds. Teens engage in free association may be caused by the lack of attention of parents, the role of social conflict in the family and adolescent lack of understanding about the Islamic aqeedah. Actions taken to avoid yourself from negative free association that is in a way always closer to God the Almighty, always follow the advice of parents, selective in choosing friends, makes the rule of law.
