

ABSTRACT

CORRELATION BETWEEN DERMATITIS SEBORRHEA WITH QUALITY OF LIFE IN PATIENTS AT ABDUL MOELOEK HOSPITAL LAMPUNG

By

MILANI NUR FADILA

Health is the main asset for human in life. It's important to measure health not only in the life salvation but also in the quality of life. Skin disease which significantly affect the quality of life is the chronic skin disease, one of them is dermatitis seborrhea. Dermatitis seborrhea is the chronic papulosquamous dermatitis which mainly can be found at seborrhea region.

This study is a cross-sectional design approach with analytic observational in November to December 2013 in Dr . H. Abdul Moeloek Hospital Lampung Province. A total of 32 patients who have been diagnosed by a specialist, with age 16 years or above, belonging to either sex, who themselves were able to understand and fill Dermatology Life Quality Index (DLQI) questionnaire.

The results showed at 32 respondents, there is not a significant effect between dermatitis seborrhea with quality of life in patients at Abdul Moeloek Hospital Lampung.

Key words: Dermatitis seborrhea, DLQI, quality of life.