

ABSTRACT

Relationship between level of education, level of income and level of communication with the participation of housewife in the posyandu (studies in village langkapura district langkapura, Bandar Lampung)

By Desty Mandriana

Posyandu is a vehicle for channeling the aspirations of the community in the areas of health and family planning and other development sectors to achieve a goal, then the role of women especially housewife are required in order to participate.

This study aims to determine the relationship between the level of education, level of income and level of communication with the participation of housewife in the neighborhood health center activities. The study was conducted in the Village District of Langkapura Langkapura Dublin, this type of research is Quantitative Research. The population in this study is houswife who have children under five stairs totaling 230 housewife. The sampling technique was done by using quota sampling so that the sample used 46 mothers households or 20% of the number of members of the population.

Research addressing that there is a significant relationship between the level of education of respondents with participation in activities posyandu. There was no significant relationship between respondents' income level with participation in activities posyandu. There is a significant relationship between the level of communication with the respondents' participation in activities posyandu.

With its proven this research, we should be able to instill that mothers participating housewife in each activity is needed to support the success of a development, especially in the field of health.

Key Words: Posyandu