This research aims to determine the coaching system, facilities and infrastructure, organization and development of wushu achievements in Lampung province.

This research method is descriptive qualitative using the POAC (Planning, Organizing, Actuating, Controlling) evaluation approach, then data is collected using observation, interviews, documentation and triangulation techniques. After the data is collected, the research results are reduced and then analyzed.

The results of this research conclude that, (1) Planning. The management system of Pengprov WI Lampung is good. the coaching system is not good. The training program has been well structured. (2) Organizing. The WI Pengprov management is not good as evidenced by the Lampung WI Pengprov not holding regular meetings. The athlete and coach development system is not yet good. on a good training program. Facilities and infrastructure are good because they are procured through deliberation. the source of funds has been said to be good. (3) Actuating. None of the Wushu trainers in Taolu Lampung have a license. Achievements have not been good because it is very difficult for Wushu Taolu Lampung athletes to get medals at national events. Pengprov WI Lampung does not evaluate athletes or coaches. (4) Controlling. supervision of athletes and coaches is poor. Pengprov WI Lampung lacks supervision of facilities and infrastructure. Supervision of performance is said to be poor, because Pengprov does not monitor athletes.
